When the Graf returned to the aerodrome the crowd had grown to 150,000 persons, and the 20 dirigibles and crew of 41 in the background.

71 INJURED IN OHIO RAILROAD WRECK SUNDAY

Train Splits Rails While Traveling 60 Miles An Hour

WOMAN PINNED IN COACH TWO HOURS

Train Was to Cleveland From Columbus; Was Excursion

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—Roaring along at 60 miles an hour to maintain its schedule, a crowded Pennsylvania Railroad Cleveland-to-Columbus excursion train, being pulled by two locomotives, ploughed through a "split" rail a few miles from Condit, near here yesterday, and 71 persons were hurt, some seriously but none fatally.

A two-fold investigation is being made into the accident today, one by railroad officials and a second by Delaware county authorities.

The train was composed of two engines, ten coaches and two parlor cars. One engine was overturned, and five coaches were thrown from the rails.

One woman, Miss Margaret J. Koelges, of Lakewood, was imprisoned in the wreckage for more than two and a half hours. It was necessary to send to a Condit garage for an acetylene torch to liberate her. She had been caught between a seat and a side of the car.

No panic was experienced on the train when it crashed, according to an eye-witness story to International News Service.

Ambulances rushed from Columbus and Mt. Vernon to care for those seriously injured. A relief train was quickly made up and dispatched from Columbus.

Traffic on the railroad was disrupted for more than 12 hours. Relief work was handicapped because it was only a single track route.

Most of the injured were from Columbus and northern Ohio.

More than 10,000 people viewed the wreckage within an hour after its occurrence.

One car left the tracks completely, plunging over the right-of-way and down into a woods.

G. S. Osborn, of Columbus, the engineer of the second locomotive, gave a brief report of the crash. He narrowly escaped death when his locomotive overturned. Told in his own words, a description of the crash is:

"It happened before I knew what was coming off. I can't imagine what might have caused it."

Engines Break Apart

"We became disconnected from the first engine and ran along the track for a short distance, then with a resounding crash, my engine turned over."

"E. C. Wagner, my fireman, hung on inside the cab. I fell right out."

"Soon as I fell, I saw the coal falling towards me. I crawled quickly away. If hadn't done that I would have probably been buried alive beneath tons of coal. As it was (Continued on Page 1)

'CHUTE' FAILURE CAUSES DEATH

Cleveland Man Leaps From Plane 3,000 Feet Above Earth; Wife Sees Tragedy

Perry O. Aug. 19.—A parachute, which failed to open, sending Dennis A. Donegan, 32, of Cleveland, hurtling through the air from a height of 1,800 feet to his death, was examined today in an effort to determine the cause of the accident.

Donegan, who was making the leap at a five-day carnival at Perry airfield, crashed in full view of 3,000 spectators, among them, his wife and two small children.

The jumper was seen to fumble with the parachute ring, but the chute failed to open. Preliminary examination of the parachute gave no clue as to its failure to operate.

Automobile Burns After Overturning

A roadster, owned by Donald Brady, 1936 Michigan ave., East Liverpool, was destroyed by fire 7 p. m. Saturday after it overturned in a field two miles south of Lisbon on the Lisbon-Salineville rd.

Brady was driving in his car north and while rounding a curve at excessive speed, drove it over an embankment at the left side of the road where it overturned, and caught fire. Brady and a companion, whose name was not learned, escaped injury. The Lisbon fire department was called.

Swiss Plane Hops Off From Spain For U. S.

Lisbon, Aug. 19.—A new attempt to span the Atlantic by air from east to west started here today when two Swiss airmen took off from Alvorca aerodrome for New York.

The fliers are Oscar Kassar, young Swiss ace, and Kurt Luescher, a youthful companion, who is acting as navigator as well as supplying the flight financially.

The plane, "Sun God" (Young Schweizerland) made a beautiful take-off at 7:20 a. m. of 30 a. m. Salem time.

The two fliers, with the help of employees of the aerodrome, had been working almost without rest for the last few days getting the runway in condition for the start.

Kassar and his companion intend to take the southerly course across the ocean by way of the Azores, but no stop will be made unless severe headwinds result in heavy diminution of their fuel supply.

After passing the Azores, the fliers' immediate destination is Halifax, Nova Scotia, but if they still have sufficient fuel when they reach the North American coast they will continue on to New York.

Compass Goes Bad; Ship Many Hours Behind Schedule

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—The Spokane "Sun God" in its non-stop round-trip flight between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts swooped over the Cleveland airport on the second lap of her journey at 6:57 a. m. today, for her second supply of food and gasoline here.

The endurance's arrival brought relief to airport crews, who had scanned the skies throughout the night for the long overdue craft.

An all night vigil had been kept for the ship with the tiny refueling craft poised on the airport runway ready to hop off at a moment's notice to give food and gas supplies.

Definite word from the "Sun God" had been lacking at the airport here since the plane left New York yesterday at mid-afternoon after completing the toilsome first half of her round-trip flight.

The "Sun God" was reported seen over Sunbury, Pa., early this morning according to airport officials, upon this report it had been expected that the endurance would put in its appearance here about 3 a. m.

The airplane arrived here yesterday morning at 9:03 a. m. on the first lap of its journey. It was expected to arrive here at 9:45 p. m. Thursday and was expected here early Saturday morning. Adverse weather, however, held up its flight progress.

Successful contact between the refueling craft and the "Sun God" was made within 20 minutes after the endurance's arrival. Approx- (Continued on Page 4)

AUTO COLLIDES WITH TRAIN AT RAIL CROSSING

Lights Blind Driver Of Car; Sees Train Too Late

FOUR OTHERS ARE INJURED

Car Was Enroute To Lisbon From Brady Lake Camp

Miss Clara Speare, 22, of Lisbon, was killed, Mrs. Lydia Voshel and Mabel Voshel of Lisbon and Letha Jones, and Charles Jones of East Palestine, were injured when the automobile, driven by Jones, crashed into a moving freight train at the crossing of the Youngstown-Albion division of the Pennsylvania railroad on Benton rd. at an early hour this morning.

All were taken to Salem City hospital where Miss Speare died a few minutes later. Mrs. and Miss Voshel and Miss Jones are still in the hospital with severe cuts and bruises. Jones was discharged after treatment.

The car was enroute from Brady lake to Lisbon at the time of the accident. Jones states he was blinded by lights of a car to his rear and failed to see the train in time to avoid the crash.

Miss Speare had been spending her vacation at Brady's lake. Jones drove the Voshel car to the lake Sunday to bring her back to Lisbon. Jones is employed at a Youngstown steel mill and is a friend of Miss Mabel Voshel.

The mother of Miss Speare is a widow and has been conducting the Lincoln way restaurant, opposite the Masonic temple in Lisbon, for a number of years.

Miss Speare is a graduate of Lisbon high school, class of '26. An aunt is Nellie Columbus, who operates the Crystal restaurant at Salem.

Train Wreck Adds To Total Hurt Over Week-End

GIRL BURNS IN AUTO AFTER CRASH

Train Kills Man; Grade Crossings Cause Deaths

Fifteen dead and more than four score injured was the toll taken by traffic accidents in Ohio during the week end according to a state-wide checkup which was completed by International News Service at noon today.

Of those injured, 71 were hurt in a train wreck near Condit in Delaware county, when a Columbus-bound Cleveland excursion train bound Cleveland, was struck by a "split" rail. The fact that the ten coaches of the train were made of steel is believed to have prevented a large death toll.

The deaths were due largely to automobile crashes. One man was run down and killed by a train at Cincinnati.

One of the worst crashes of the week end occurred near Dayton, when the life of a young girl was snuffed out by flames which enveloped the car in which she was riding after it careened from a curve into a ditch. The dead girl is Dorothy Banga, 21, of Dayton. Two other persons in the "death car" escaped with only slight hurts.

Run down by a street car after alighting from a taxicab, John R. Decker, 60, a Franklin county resident, was killed in Columbus.

Miss Ann Garrett, 18, of Dayton, was fatally injured when the automobile in which she was riding overturned near Austin, Ross county, last night.

Frank E. Tharp, 62, a Columbus carpenter, was killed when his auto was forced into a ditch and overturned on a road near Lancaster, Ohio. His wife suffered cuts and bruises in the accident.

An automobile accident near Springfield claimed the life of Charles W. Haley, 24, of that city. His automobile plunged from gravel shoulders of the road into a ditch.

A hit-skip autoist ran down and fatally injured Paul Paletchek on a road near Warren. One of his legs was amputated in an effort to save his life, but the attempt of doctors was futile.

One Zanesville woman was mortally hurt and two of her daughters were injured in an automobile collision at Colfax, near Lancaster, Ohio, as Mrs. Laura P. Perrygo, 32, her daughters, who are in a Lancaster hospital, were taken to the hospital. (Continued on Page 5)

Free Surgeon Dies In Fall From Branches; Man Loses Life Trying to Board Train

Canton, O., Aug. 19.—Two persons are dead here today as a result of violent deaths over the week-end. Michael Bertsch, Jr., 39, of Canton, was almost instantly killed when he attempted to hop a fast Wheeling and Lake Erie passenger train at Middlebranch near here.

McBRIDE FLAYS WILLEBRANDT

Newspapers Also Get Criticism For Stand On Prohibition

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—Playing newspapers and charging Mabel Walker Willebrandt with seeking "cheap front page publicity," Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of America, told a church congregation here that prohibition is today the most satisfactory solution to the alcohol question.

"When newspapers of the country catch up to the church, the liquor traffic will be stopped," McBride roared to his listeners.

He severely criticized Mrs. Willebrandt and her attitude toward the late Wayne B. Wheeler, legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

"If Mrs. Willebrandt lives long enough to render one-tenth of the cause that Wayne Wheeler did, she will be cured of her disposition to criticize his motives and services," the dr. leader said.

LET THE VERDICT ALONE

Desperate efforts are to be made to save Dr. James H. Snook from the electric chair. Every possible loophole will be explored in the hope that the verdict returned by a jury in less than half an hour may be set aside and the life of this murderer saved.

For the first time in months a murderer has been condemned to death by a jury in Ohio. It came to the point where the public simply took it for granted that slayers like Snook merely had to find emotionalism or something equally as futile, and presto! a jury extended them mercy.

The jury in Franklin county which convicted Snook is entitled to the earnest consideration of the people of Ohio. Here were twelve fearless persons who heard the evidence, together with the judge's instructions and returned the verdict which nine-tenths of the public expected.

Of course it is to the credit of Snook's lawyers that they do all they can to beat the chair, but in the name of justice, if ever there was a deliberately planned and executed murder, after an illicit liaison which threatened to become public property and which was termed a "pleasant little arrangement" by the man who was responsible for it, that was the Snook affair. Respected men in the business of teaching the children of a state as great as Ohio, who stray from the path of rectitude and then seek to evade the fate they so richly deserve are entitled to little or no consideration other than the customary safeguards thrown about a killer by the law.

VALUABLE RECORD

Endurance records have become a common thing in aviation, where they are doing much to establish the science of flying on a safe basis. One of the most significant things about all aeronautical records made up to the present time is that most of them have gone far past previous mark of the previous one, thereby demonstrating that the limit of possibilities has barely been approached.

Another endurance record has been established, but not in the air. The latest achievement of long-time operation was performed on the steel rails of the St. Louis and San Francisco railway by locomotive 4113. The results were very similar to those obtained in recent aviation records—the new record was more than twice that of the former one and the engine making the run was reported to be in good condition. During the 25 days of the run, 1,500,000 gallons of water and 975 tons of coal were consumed. Compared to recent achievement of the gas engine, that is not such a staggering statement, but the fact that a locomotive pulled 13,780,749 gross tons of freight during that time is the important part of the record. Steam power is accepted as having been in a high state of development for a number of years.

Endurance records may be very valuable, or they may be extremely silly. Endurance dances, rocking chair contests, whistling contests, flag pole sittings and the like are of no earthly value, other than the opportunity to sacrifice health and self-respect for ill-gotten money. But a locomotive endurance run proving that the possibilities of the steam engine have not yet been realized after a century of development is of infinite value.

When engine No. 4113, of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, pulled into Kansas City, Thursday, it had traveled 3,144 miles, and was still going strong. That locomotive is handling up a record which may well cause those who hold that the steam locomotive is doomed to sit up and take notice.

An eastern economist warns against the dangers in a merger trend, holding that it will result in making us merger minded. Anyway, when about every line of business has been merged it's more likely than not that we will find ourselves merger minded.

What Others Say

COMPARATIVE PERILS

Despite the great strides made during the past two years in making the American people feel at home in the air, there is little doubt that the average "man in the street" still is somewhat timid over the prospect of air travel.

The department of commerce has just made quite interesting statistics showing that man has now reached the point in his development of air navigation where it is only 75 times as dangerous to operate a plane for a given number of miles as an automobile for a trip of the same length.

The gist of the statistics is that during 1928 one life was lost for every 170,000 miles flown in the air in the United States, whereas one life is sacrificed for every 6,601,219 automobile miles.

These final comparisons result after all factors have been taken into consideration, such as that 55 per cent of those killed in motor accidents are pedestrians. In the air every accident must be with planes, since there are as yet no "air pedestrians." That may come in the future, but for the present air accidents occur mostly plane by plane with now and then a fatality occurring when two planes crash together.

Air travel is more and more coming to be an accepted thing, so that the ratio instance probably will deteriorate further. The lure of the air, hazard of travel, in all branches of travel. No automobile, however careful, can be sure when he sets out on a trip that he will not meet some drunken driver who will cause him to do all sorts of perilous dodging.

So far, the air seems to be free of the intoxicated person, and in this respect it is safer than earthly travel. All in all, the larger death peril in the air is only what every one expects, and its rate is remarkably low, in view of the newness of wings for man.—Washington Star.

LIGHT IS INVALUABLE
IN PROMOTING HEALTH

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

(United States Senator from New York)

Somewhere I saw this quotation from Goethe:

"I marvel not, O Sun, that unto thee."

In addition, man should bow the knee.

And pour the prayer of mankind awe and love.

For like a God thou art, and on the way

Of glory shedd'st a heavenly light."

Beauty and life and joy flow from thy light."

Nothing that great madman or seer can say in praise of sunlight is too extravagant to be true. To the sun, as we owe everything for the health we enjoy.

You cannot be well, strong, vigorous, alert and magnetic without absorbing what sunlight can give.

There are quite a few in light that stimulate the circulation, enrich the blood and add to length of days.

I never see a white-livered, pudgy, complexioned person without being forced to restrain myself. I just long to read him a lecture about the importance of light.

Not everybody can have sunshine in the home. Many city houses never get a ray. But fortunately for us "city-dwellers" carries the ultra-violet rays from the sky and the clouds, even though there is no sunshine, will come the helpful and health-giving rays.

I fear that the average person fails to appreciate the important part the skin plays in the battle of life. Unless the covering of the body is kept clean, is thoroughly aired and exposed to light, its weariness is robbed of one of the chief sources of health promotion.

When cold weather comes many of us will shiver and complain of the temperature. If the skin is given daily exposure, as it should be, it will grow strong and resistant. It will be less violently affected by extremes of weather.

There is a bad just now for sunbaths. It is the most sensible fact of recent years. It is to be hoped it will not be short-lived.

Take advantage of the summer and fall months to accumulate a good coat of tan. Then do not let it fade out as winter comes. You will be better now and all through the year if your skin is burned.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. W. R. S. Q.—How old should a baby be before being permitted to look at moving pictures? Also what month does a baby begin to sit up unaided?

A—Babies should not be taken to see moving pictures—a child should be at least six years before indulging in this recreation. Depends upon the strength and general health of the baby—some babies sit up about the sixth month but there is no hard and fast rule governing this.

R. A. F. Q.—What causes ringing in the ears? What can be done to stop it?

A—Ringing in the ears is often due to nasal catarrh, which has extended into the middle ear. Special treatment is advisable.

X. Y. Z. Q.—What will make my eyelashes grow?

A—What do you advise for developing the calf of the leg?

A—You might try applying 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the calves every night.

2—Walking, dancing, climbing and skating are all good exercises for developing the calf of the leg.

V. F. Q.—What causes a cracking sound in my left knee every time I bend? The joint is not swollen and there is no pain or soreness in it.

A—Lack of synovial fluid and poor circulation are probably responsible for this condition.

But Weather Advice to Mothers of Babies

In hot weather a baby suffers from prickly heat. A fine rash appears on the skin. Along with it a lot of itching and burnings making the baby restless and liable to cry.

The most common cause for prickly heat or heat rash is over-dressing the baby in hot weather.

If the infant is dressed too warmly here is sure to be sweating. This is followed by the rash, and it will not disappear until the sweating is overcome.

Don't be afraid to expose the child to the air. In very warm weather take off all the clothing.

Spread down a sheet on the floor or on the grass. Put the baby on his back and let him kick and crawl on his heart's content.

When you expose the little youngster in this way, you will, of course, be careful so as not to expose the child too much to the rays of the sun. But unless it is a very hot day it will do no harm to accustom the child to the rays of the sun. They have a magical effect upon the health and well-being of the infant.

The most common cause for prickly heat or heat rash is over-dressing the baby in hot weather.

If the infant is dressed too warmly here is sure to be sweating. This is followed by the rash, and it will not disappear until the sweating is overcome.

Don't be afraid to expose the child to the air. In very warm weather take off all the clothing.

Spread down a sheet on the floor or on the grass. Put the baby on his back and let him kick and crawl on his heart's content.

When you expose the little youngster in this way, you will, of course, be careful so as not to expose the child too much to the rays of the sun. But unless it is a very hot day it will do no harm to accustom the child to the rays of the sun. They have a magical effect upon the health and well-being of the infant.

There is a bad just now for sunbaths. It is the most sensible fact of recent years. It is to be hoped it will not be short-lived.

Take advantage of the summer and fall months to accumulate a good coat of tan. Then do not let it fade out as winter comes. You will be better now and all through the year if your skin is burned.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. W. R. S. Q.—How old should a baby be before being permitted to look at moving pictures? Also what month does a baby begin to sit up unaided?

A—Babies should not be taken to see moving pictures—a child should be at least six years before indulging in this recreation. Depends upon the strength and general health of the baby—some babies sit up about the sixth month but there is no hard and fast rule governing this.

R. A. F. Q.—What causes ringing in the ears? What can be done to stop it?

A—Ringing in the ears is often due to nasal catarrh, which has extended into the middle ear. Special treatment is advisable.

X. Y. Z. Q.—What will make my eyelashes grow?

A—What do you advise for developing the calf of the leg?

A—You might try applying 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the calves every night.

2—Walking, dancing, climbing and skating are all good exercises for developing the calf of the leg.

V. F. Q.—What causes a cracking sound in my left knee every time I bend? The joint is not swollen and there is no pain or soreness in it.

A—Lack of synovial fluid and poor circulation are probably responsible for this condition.

But Weather Advice to Mothers of Babies

In hot weather a baby suffers from prickly heat. A fine rash appears on the skin. Along with it a lot of itching and burnings making the baby restless and liable to cry.

Osmannian, Aug. 19.—Despite reports to the contrary, the actors for the main parts in the Passion Play of 1930 have not yet been chosen. The choice will not be made until September.

Of the six candidates for the part of Jesus, probabilities still favor the two—Ria Lang, daughter of Anna Lang, the famous painter of the Christ, and Hans Reiser, daughter of the Obermannian postmaster. If Lang does not again accept the title role, tradition will assign him the part of the speaker of the prodigies. Rehearsals will begin in December.

AFRICAN DWARF DISPLAY MODEL

Chicago Museum Starts Work On Figures For Exhibit

Chicago, Aug. 19.—"Chico," the dwarf South African bushman, has been spending his mornings recently at the Field Museum of Natural History where he is posing as a model for sculptured figures to represent his race in the anthropological collection of the museum.

The bushman represents one of the oldest races in existence, whose primitive culture is still on the same plane as that of the earliest paleolithic peoples of western Europe, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at the museum. Today "Chico's" race is rapidly becoming extinct, only a few hundred bushmen being left alive in the Kalahari desert, Dr. Laufer said.

"Chico" is to be immortalized in permanent sculpture by John G. Prussing, staff sculptor at Field Museum. Prussing is at present taking plaster casts of the pygmy which will be used in the making of a group representing the bushmen in their native state. Also a bust will be added to the collection representing types of various peoples of the world.

For purposes of scientific studies, Henry Field, assistant curator of physical anthropology, is making a chart of "Chico's" measurements and various data concerning him, which will be filed in the museum archives with similar records taken of hundreds of other racial types. The bushman is four feet tall and claims to be nearly 100 years old.

Cruising planes sent out to rescue them have found no trace of fliers or plane.

East Liverpool-East Palestine Road Closed To Traffic

The East Liverpool-East Palestine rd. at Calcutta, has been closed to traffic again, as the Lewis & Cleveland Construction Co., who have the contract for paving this section will begin pouring concrete Tuesday or Wednesday. Culverts and grading are about 90 per cent complete. To pour the concrete surface on this project will not require much more than seven or eight working days, and 21 days after the last batch has been poured, the road will then be opened permanently to through north and south traffic.

John Hill of Ada, O., who was awarded the contract for the construction of the four-span concrete bridge at Fredericktown on this road has started excavating for both piers and abutments. It has been estimated that not less than 130 working days will be required to finish this bridge. Hill is the same contractor who erected the large concrete bridge over Little Yellow creek on the Wellsville-East Liverpool rd.

The last batch of concrete has been poured on the Elton-Clarkson rd. by George B. Patterson of Wellsville, and it is quite possible that this road will be opened to traffic on or about Sept. 5 or 7.

Between Elton and Lisbon, the state highway department recently ordered W. C. Neff of Lisbon, to place a bituminous top on this section of highway, and this work is nearing completion. The wet season of last week held back the completion of the work, but the last top coating is now being put on the road.

In addition to this latter improvement, the state highway department is also arranging to place a bituminous beam on the south side of the narrow brick extending west from Elton, and from the point where the brick road joins the new concrete highway being built under the Patterson contract, the road east from Lincoln way, Lisbon taps the East Liverpool-Youngstown rd. north of Williamsport.

About two-thirds of the rough grading has been completed on the Salem-Kensington rd. by Ben Francis of East Palestine. The work has progressed to a point where grading is leaving the former Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad right of way to the new right of way. All drainage structures on this road are finished.

This road will be given a concrete top next year, according to present plan, of the county commissioners.

TOBACCO MEN TRY EXPERIMENT IN CROP SALES

North Carolina Growers Plan New System To Increase Gains

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 19.—To the vast tobacco growing areas of North Carolina, which last year sold a total of $7,077,815 pounds at an average price of $18.78 per hundred will come a new experiment this season in the grading of tobacco by department of agriculture experts in advance of the auction sale.

According to an announcement by the State Department of Agriculture, the experiment likely will be carried on at Goldsboro in the eastern portion of the state.

Opens Sept. 21
This tobacco center is in what is known as the New Bright Belt, one of the largest of the Carolina tobacco sections, which opens on September 21.

Under the prevailing system, the trays of weed are placed on the warehouse floors in the order in which they are brought in. They are tagged showing the name of the grower, the weight of the bag, and other details. When the sale starts the buyers are compelled to judge the value, weight and quality of the leaf from its exterior appearance.

However, with the inauguration of the new grading method, every pile of tobacco will be carefully examined under uniform light conditions, and the texture, weight and quality are graded by the agriculture experts.

Tag System
At the sale the buyer has only to glance at the tag to learn how it has been graded, and then verify the grade from his own knowledge.

The department of agriculture has appropriated $5,000 to carry out this experiment, which was made on a small scale on some of the Virginia markets last year. The new method of grading was said to have proven very popular in the Old Dominion with the growers and warehousemen alike, as it meant larger earnings for the warehouses and fewer chances to the farmer.

An automatic fire alarm installed in Canada uses cocoa butter, which melts at a comparatively low temperature, to release electric contact points.

drillable again had the thing of floating above a cheerless, desolate sea of humanity. But this time the arrival was even more fantastic than any of the Zeppelin's previous arrivals for on the field beneath was spread out a romantic crowd of Germans, Americans, English and Japanese, many of the latter in colorful costumes, thrilled as never before by the first sight of the monarch of the air which has devastated the distances which separate the ends of the earth.

As the Zeppelin's motors, for the first time in 85 hours, ceased their dull roar and whined down to a step, the "spider" coils of landing ropes were thrown down from hatchways, and seized by the eager hands of the ground crew.

Slowly the great ship was nosed down to earth, and the "hauhaus" of the Japanese, the "heehs" of the Germans, and the hearty "hurrahs" of the Americans and English rose to an even higher pitch as the faces of the passengers were exposed against the glass of the ship's gondola.

TRIM STREET FROCKS FOR THE FALL

Trim street frock and broken combination is used by Olga Bachman, left, for a trim street costume. The jumper adheres to her body, with broad bands as accents, while the frock is styled in a simple, straight line. Hat bag and shoes harmonize. Green Lee, right, has chosen purple tulle. The blouse shows the new double breasted style finished with leather buttons and showing a belt of the material tied on one side.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

A good cook I know once said that there's no such thing as stale cake. A cake good enough to serve is good enough to keep for as many days as it lasts, and if properly kept it will not grow hard or stale. As a matter of fact, most cakes improve with the days because flavor develops slowly. Fruit cake of course, is no good at all when fresh, but delicious after several weeks or even months.

But bread and cake can become moldy very easily, and so they require care in handling. Hot bread should never be wrapped in a cloth nor should baker's bread be put in the breadbox in its paper wrapping. Bread and cake should be allowed to cool after baking and then put in an immaculate container. Tin bread boxes are common enough, but we are now importing a new kind of bread and cake box—a rather crude affair of wood and china painted like tiles. It is dry, keeps cool and is easy to clean.

Less expensive is the glass dish which comes in various sizes. It is easy to clean and dry. This keeps the cake airtight and fresh. It is a special convenience for those who bake cakes in sizes larger than the average bread and cake box can accommodate. But no matter what container is used for bread and cake, whether tin, china or glass, it needs to be washed, scrubbed and aired regularly once a week at least, to make sure against moldiness.

To preserve cooked foods—vegetables, meats, etc.—there can't be had a complete little box of enamel dishes with covers, they come in varied sizes, square and oblong in shape, fairly deep, and among other things have refrigerator space. Many foods which must be kept in the ice box absorb odors very easily—butter and milk products for example. Naturally they must be well covered to protect them from alien flavors. Similarly, other foods, like rich or banana cake, off odors. If each food is kept in separate containers, covered, well chilled, it will be preserved well and not affect other foods, which happen to be nearby. The enamel nests of containers are very helpful as they have plenty of space for average quantities, six, three, or four dishes can be fitted on top of each other and neatly stacked in the ice box in a moderate amount of room.

If cheese is a favorite in the family, the new "cheese preserver" will prevent waste. It is a wax-coated affair, all of glass. The lower part is bowl-shaped. But the bottom has two ching elevations on which to rest the cheese. This means that there is a depression all around and in this depression a half cup of vinegar and 1 tablespoon of salt are poured—to preserve the cheese from spoilage. The lid is placed on top as a further protection.

For the family where someone opens a bottle of gingerale or other charged water and drinks only part of it, there is a new kind of bottle stopper. Once you remove the cap from the bottle you use it is next to impossible to fasten it securely again. This new bottle stopper, however, can be used over and over again. It is clamped on any opened bottle of charged water, seals it perfectly so that the next time the bottle is opened the contents are as fresh and sparkling as the first.

But keeping things hot when they are supposed to be served hot is just as important as keeping them cold.

TOWNSHIPS TO GET GAS FUND

$101,400 Distributed As New Law Goes Into Effect

Columbus, O., Aug. 19. Announcement of the distribution of $101,400 of state gas tax funds to Ohio's 1,338 townships for use in improving highways was made today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy. Each township received $300.

This was the first distribution to the townships under the new act, passed at the last legislative session, increasing the state gas tax one cent and boosting it to three cents from two cents per gallon.

The state auditor's office expects to make another distribution of more than $200,000 to the townships before the end of this year.

Six Lose Lives As Father Slays Family

Detroit, Aug. 19.—Four children and their parents were found dead in their home today, victims of the father who asphyxiated his family with gas and then committed suicide by drinking poison.

The dead are Hans Peter Nelson, his wife, Magdalene, and their four children. The tragedy occurred in the Nelson home at Royal Oak, a nearby town.

A milkman, making his rounds this morning, saw fire through the windows of the Nelson house. The father had sprinkled the bodies of his family with gasoline and ignited them just before he himself drank acid, investigators said.

SUN GOD

imately 100 gallons of gas were delivered by the refueler.

An attempt to make second contact with the "Sun God" was started at 7:28.

Officials at the airport here stated that the "Sun God" gave every appearance of being "hale and hearty." Its motors were humming smoothly.

"Tough Going" Claim

In a note dropped to airport officials here yesterday, the pilots described their flight from North Platte, Neb., as "tough going."

The indicator had fallen out of the plane's earth compass, putting the instrument "on the bum." The note requested that a new one be lowered to them at the New York airport.

After refueling operations, the "Sun God" sped on its way to New York to make up for lost time.

"It's been damn tough," the note read. "We have to wobble every bit of gas to the wing tanks and we have no chance to rest. It takes one man practically all the time at the pumps. It's a terrible job to clean the windshield at night. The indicator on the earth indicator fell out. Will you get us a new one at New York?"

Two contacts were made with the "Sun God" here yesterday. One hundred gallons of gas were given at each contact.

"ELUSIVE KID" AGAIN IN JAIL

Youth Who Foils All Efforts To Hold Him Taken by Sheriff

Lakewood, Aug. 19.—Robert Dutcher who was arrested at the home of his parents southwest of Rogers Saturday afternoon by Sheriff W. J. Barlow and Deputy George Harroff has long been wanted on an indictment returned by the January grand jury for operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner.

Dutcher has been known among the police of the county as the "elusive kid."

He was committed to the Lakewood Reformatory several years ago by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle. He "walked out" while there and was again returned to Lakewood by George Wright, then sheriff. He "walked out" a second time and his father started back to Lakewood with him. At Columbus young Dutcher eluded his father. His father again started with his son for Lakewood and at Columbus he again "walked out" from the automobile in which he was a passenger.

Since then the police of the county as well as the sheriff have been watching for him. Sheriff Barlow has made several trips to Rogers after receiving tips that Dutcher was "back again." Another tip was received to this effect last Friday, and early Saturday morning three rovers at Lakewood reported at Rogers, Barlow and Harroff went to the Dutcher home and placed him under arrest, not only on an old indictment, but for being implicated in the three robberies at Rogers early Saturday morning. He will be arraigned on the latter charges Tuesday.

Cleveland Resident Shot from Ambush

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—Louis DeCato, 28, of Cleveland, was in a serious condition in St. Alexis' hospital here today with gunshot wounds in his back and head which were fired from ambush as the man was returning home from work Sunday.

Two men were held by Garfield police today charged with shooting to kill. They are Nick Lucarelli, 29, and Daniel DeComillo.

The shooting, according to police, resulted from DeCapato's refusal to pay $200 damages demanded by Lucarelli for injuries which Lucarelli's small son was alleged to have received when struck by the wounded man's automobile two months ago.

FARM NOTES

Items of Interest Taken from Ohio Rural Districts

TRUMBULL COUNTY TO HOLD DAIRY DAY

On Friday afternoon of Sept. 6 a "Dairy Day" program will be given at the Trumbull county experiment farm. This will bring to dairymen of Trumbull and adjoining counties a considerable part of the material presented at Wooster recently when 3,000 people attended the Dairy Day held at the Ohio experiment station. Many doubts as to the value of the program were removed by the fact that the program was so arranged that it could not be for some reason or other take the 75 or 100 miles trip to and from Wooster. However, these and many others can scarcely afford not to take advantage of this opportunity whereby in a single afternoon, close at home there can be learned the newest angles in calf feeding, mineral requirements, pasture improvements and dairy research in general. Charles Crawford, superintendent of the Trumbull county experiment farm will be assisted by C. C. Hayden and Charles Monroe of the dairy department and by M. A. Bachtel who is in charge of the outlying county experiment farms which are under the supervision of the Ohio experiment station.

On display will be some heifers which as calves were fed milk varying from 60 to 120 days. These heifers are now reaching breeding age and this will probably be the last time they will be publicly presented. Growth records have been kept since birth. Some and see the heifers and learn the lessons they teach.

For eight years the Trumbull county experiment farm herd was on a mineral experiment. At the present time fish meal and kelp are included in the grain ration fed to part of the herd. The remainder getting clinical and cottonseed. This is to test out the rather extravagant claims made for these materials and thereby protect the dairymen in case these claims are not well founded.

Some pasture plots on the experiment farm were heavily nitrated this summer at monthly intervals. Much is being heard about nitrating pastures and the experiment farm is trying to find out the economy of the practice in Trumbull county.

Lowell Allen Wins Two Firsts In Field Meet At Pittsburg

Salem Given Fourth Place In Standings

Salem was again heard from in track competition when Lowell "Little Rib" Allen and Keith "Mutt" Roessler, the noted "twins" of Red and black scholastic fame, invaded the Schenley oval at Pittsburg for the Fourth annual field and track meet sponsored by the Philadelphia company and affiliated corporations.

Allen, entered from Salem High, took fourth place for his scholastic team in the pole vault, a first in the pole vault and broad jump, and third in the high jump for 11 points. Mutt, competing for the Pittsburgh Athletic association, took second in the vault.

It was the first work done athletically by either lad since the Fourth of July meet at Pittsburg, when both won honors and they were handicapped to some extent by the lack of practice. Allen had a hard time getting over 11 feet 8 inches in the vault, but made a leap of 20 feet six inches in the broad jump.

Allen, the holder of the world's intercollegiate pole vault title and the record at 13 feet 3 3/4 inches, missed twice on 10-6 and once on succeeding heights, but outclassed the field. The only competition available was given him by his old-time teammate.

Mutt's two points in the vault were jettisoned down in the P. A. A. scoring column, helping that group to second place in the meet. Rib had high individual scoring honors in the meet, with his 11 points, and brought home three beautiful medals.

Both lads will re-enter school this fall. Roessler is to Denison, where studies forced his ineligibility last fall, but Allen has not yet determined which school will benefit from his athletic talent. Both graduated from Salem High in '28.

Lake Outfit Wins Again

In a game featured by several near riots, Dun Eden defeated the Monarch A. C. of Youngstown 11-4 at Dun Eden lake, Sunday afternoon.

Konacheck's assault of the base umpire in the second innings almost resulted in a general embroilment, when he also attempted to attack Giles, the colored outfit's third baseman, but the Youngstown segregation settled the player and peace reigned.

The lake third baseman was out by the proverbial rule at third, a decision he resented when he started his general fisticuffs.

The lake team had it easy the whole game. Summary—

Collie Dog Kills Large Blacksnake

Terrville, Conn., Aug. 19.—William S. Brink, driving into a town of a hot morning this summer, saw a collie dog rush into a clump of bushes just ahead of him. By the time the Brink machine was abreast of the bushes, the dog emerged bearing a five-foot blacksnake, just back of the snake's head.

The dog saw the machine, dropped the snake, and scurried cross-lots as if he had been caught doing something wrong. The snake's head had been bitten almost off.

Deer In Ohio

News reports in the past week stated that R. O. Van Vorhes, an attaché of the Ohio fish and game division, was in Pennsylvania to arrange for 150 to 200 deer for stocking purposes in state forests and preserves of this state.

It would be rather a nice thing to bolster the deer population of the state and have them in state property. Several are at large now and two does are seen very often in eastern Stark and western Columbiana county. The Roosevelt game preserve has quite a few.

Despite the fact many state-known conservationists are predicting deer hunting in the state within a few years, I can hardly warm up to the proposition for several reasons.

With nearly half a million hunters in the Buckeye state, it seems that the deer would be cleaned out in a very short season, unless a high license would be put on them. If such a license would be put into effect, it would be unfair to the chase, who cannot afford to pay it but who put money into state funds for other restocking and propagation.

How would you like to go hunting on the opening day of squirrel or rabbit season if every hunter was armed with a rifle of sufficient caliber and power to kill deer?

There are 41,040 square miles in the state of Ohio. Nearly 500,000 hunters are licensed. Let us say that 25 per cent or 125,000 of them would hunt deer. This would make about six hunters for every square mile and a high powered bullet can span two of these square mile areas. The square mile figures above include cities and other populated areas where there would be no hunting.

It would seem as if mistaken targets and roaming bullets would inflict as many casualties in the human as in the deer family. A bullet from a high-powered rifle will travel from two miles on up, if nothing stops it.

In some states a shotgun with a buckshot, sent the reason for the name's is still used, although others prohibit it.

If the deer are protected and allowed to roam at large and increase, as they more likely will do, what will the farmers' reaction be? Pennsylvania has many cases of crop damage now, despite the fact they have a great deal more suitable deer country than we have.

If deer are brought into the state in numbers and permitted to roam at large but are protected, it is right to use the hunters' and fishermen's funds to purchase and care for them and pay damage claims? It might be that the funds would be better used to transport a few more bass into inland waters, build a few more hatcheries, raise some more Hungarian partridges or pheasants or perhaps increase the salary of game protectors, which is very low compared to the demand for high personnel on a job of that kind.

The proposition certainly presents many problems. No one would be more pleased to see deer in the state than myself, but it seems, that all in all it is worthy of considerable thought before anything is done on an extensive scale.

Squirrel Season In Ohio

There seems to be considerable confusion on squirrel season in Ohio this year. The killing of legislation which protected in alternate years and a change in the opening date are to blame.

The season this year opens on September 15 and continues to October 1. There is a catch, however, as the 15th comes on a Sunday this year and no Sabbath hunting is permitted. This will make the season open on the 16th.

The bag limit is four grays and fox in the aggregate. Red squirrel may be killed in any numbers. The law ruling I ran across stated that red squirrel could be killed in squirrel season only, although they are given no protection. What a former attorney general based this ruling on, or whether it is still effective, I can not say.

The new legislation moved the opening day of squirrel season from October 1 and eliminated the clause which prohibited hunting only in years ending in even numbers. The old law gave squirrel but one season's respite.

While on the law topic, the rest might as well be reviewed. Rabbit season opens on November 15 and extends to January 1, both dates inclusive. November 15, this year, comes on a Friday. Pheasant may be shot during the first ten days of rabbit season. Hungarian partridge is also on the open list at that time.

Wild fowl, ducks, geese, brant, coot and gallinule, are on the open list from September 16 to December 31, with the exception of gallinule, which ends November 30.

Wild turkey, quail, wood duck, grouse and doves are not game in the state of Ohio.

Game Laws In Other States

Here is a partial list of some and states in which open seasons prevail.

Yale Residents To Save Old Houses

New Haven, Aug. 19.—Two of the most ancient houses in New England are being preserved by organizations connected with Yale, this summer. The structures are the Elihu club a junior society of the college and the Faculty club an organization for wives of the faculty and women who have executive positions in the University. Both face the north side of the old Central Green, one on each side of the Yale law school building. The two structures figured in the British invasion of 1779 and were inhabited many years before that event.

Most of New Haven's old houses have fallen before the pressure of the commercial interests of the city and have been wiped out, some of their parts being preserved in museums about the land.

Pitching Plays Great Part In Sunday's Games

By HENRY McLEMORE

New York, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Those baseball followers who are accustomed to pick up their morning papers—glance at the boxscore—and immediately set up a wail after reading of the amazing flights of the so-called rabbit ball are no doubt happily silent this morning.

For there were but three home runs hit in seven major games yesterday and several tilts where booming bats played a much smaller part than pitcher's arms.

The most notable example of the latter was here in New York where Pat Malone and Larry Benton engaged in what may be safely termed a pitcher's battle. The Cubs won 1 to 0, Malone allowing but five hits and Benton but four. Heathcote's sacrifice fly scored Cuyler in the seventh for the single run of the game.

William Watson Clark pitched himself a mighty neat ball game limiting the Cards to five safeties as the Robins tripped the St. Louis outfit, 3 to 2, in one hour and thirty minutes. Outfielder Frederic kept up his sensational work at bat by getting his twentieth homer.

In the only other game scheduled in the National Baseball turned back the Reds, 10 to 9. Hank Gowdy, who has not had an active season in the majors in five years, entered the Boston line-up and got four hits in four times at bat. Rabbit Maranville, another veteran, drove in four of the Braves' runs.

Out in Chicago Ted Lyons threw some rather explosive balls toward the Yanks, giving them but six hits as his White Sox teammates won a 3 to 2 victory. In addition to doing such a nice job of flinging Lyons sent in the winning run in the ninth inning with a resounding double.

The Athletics gained nothing in the second-placers as Sad Sam Gray won a decision from Lefty Grove though Grove held St. Louis to six hits while Gray was nipped for ten. The score was 4 to 3 with Jimmy Fox hitting two homers, double and scoring all of the Mack runs. It was Gray's fifteenth win of the year and Grove's third loss.

The Red Sox scored their seventh victory in nine starts by defeating the Tigers, 5 to 4, in eleven innings.

Cleveland pounded Garland Braxton hard to humble Washington, 6 to 1. Four errors aided in the Indians' scoring.

Kansas City Builds Largest Airport

Kansas City, Aug. 19.—Prediction that the Fairfay airport here will be the largest in the United States in a year, surpassing O'Hare in Chicago and Buffalo, was made by Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, former World War ace and vice president of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation.

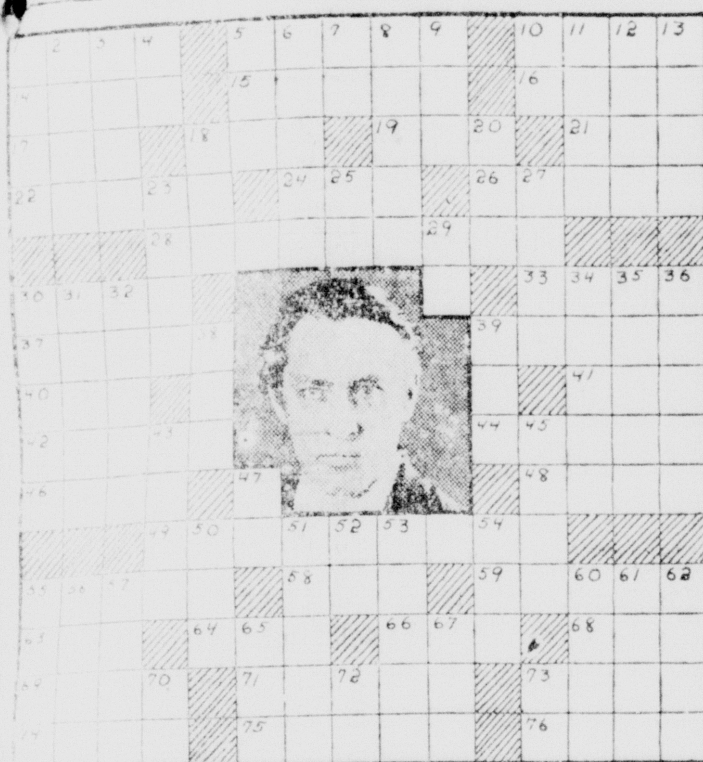

"As the logical halfway point of cross continent air travel and with the area for future expansion adequate, it is indicated that Fairfay will become the largest," Rickenbacker explained.

UNKNOWN BODY FOUND IN WELL

Man Murdered, Is Claim
Of Officials; Dead
Some Time

Marion, O., Aug. 19.—Further investigation into the brutal murder of an unidentified man, whose body was found in a well at an abandoned tile-mill at Martel village, northeast of here, late yesterday, is to be made by county authorities today.

That the body, with the head crushed in by a blunt instrument and the facial bones broken, had been in the 35-foot well five or six months was the opinion of Coroner B. D. Osborn.

A handkerchief rag was found in the corpse's mouth and a rope had been tied to its neck. This indicated, police said, that the body had been weighted down when it was tossed into the well.

According to villagers, the kilns at the tile mill are inhabited throughout the winter by hobos.

For several months last winter, a well-dressed, middle-aged man, apparently enough money to care for his frugal needs, lived in one of the kilns. It is the belief of authorities that the man had been killed by the hobos.

Nothing was found on the body by which to identify it.

The tile mill has not been in operation for several years. Martel citizens said there were no dump-heaps reported.

A petition that the county fill up the abandoned well is to be circulated among the villagers today.

SNOOK HEARING IS SET AHEAD

Motion For New Trial
Gets Delay; State
Requests

Columbus, O., Aug. 19.—The hearing on a motion for a new trial for Dr. James Howard Snook, middle-aged convicted murderer of his young and beautiful sweetheart, Miss Theora Hix, was today continued until tomorrow morning.

Attorneys for Snook, a former Ohio State university professor, filed an affidavit declaring they had not been allowed sufficient time to prepare their case before the trial, which ended last Wednesday when the jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated less than half an hour, took only one ballot and unanimously decided Snook should die in the electric chair.

Defense counsel argued that the demonstration in the court room at the conclusion of Prosecutor John J. Chester's closing address to the jury had been "staged." The spectators in the crowded courtroom cheered and cheered when the first witness, Chester, pleaded that the erstwhile badge-respected college professor should die.

The prosecutor today stated he could furnish affidavits that the demonstration had not been instigated by the state, and he was allowed until tomorrow morning to secure such affidavits.

Harris, who was stabbed during an argument over the cards, died in a Martins Ferry hospital today.

MOVIES

"WHEEL OF LIFE"

With the coming of sound to the screen drama there were many who forecast the demise of the silent screen. But if they had only seen Richard Dix in the category of those who would decline in popularity when sound became a feature in the movie theater, they were wrong all wrong.

For Dix proved that he is a remarkable find for the talkies in his first picture, "Nothing But the Truth," which gained him immediate great renown as an audible "talker."

He found him, the 100 per cent. talking Paramount production, "The Wheel of Life," comes to the State theater tonight for a three days' run and it brings Dix forward in an even stronger light as one of the great actors of the speaking silver-screen.

"The Wheel of Life" is a dashing, vivid, romantic drama and Dix as the central figure, is the personification of vigorous, soldierly manhood. The plot is seven years' life in a military outpost of the British government in India.

It concerns the love which develops between Dix and Esther Ralston, who plays the role of the young and unhappy wife of the elderly O. P. Haggie, commanding officer of the military post. Dix rescues Esther and a party of friends when they are beset by hostile native tribesmen who surround a monastery of the Buddhist priests where the easterners have taken refuge. The climax is an amazing and breath-taking one.

"SINGING FOOL"

Al Jolson, famed as a blackface comedian, lays aside burnt cork for the greater part of his feature at the Royal, "The Singing Fool," and to a great extent plays his role straight. And he plays it not as a clowning, wisecracking comedian, but with an emotional power and depth of feeling that are remarkable.

Thus the screen production presents a new Al Jolson—a finished, dramatic actor who in his new medium exercises an even greater sway over the hearts of his audience than before.

As singing waiter in a New York night club, and later as master of ceremonies in the gayest of the city's cabarets, Jolson is seen as a man almost beaten down by the heavy hand of tragedy, following a beginning that seemed to promise him every human joy.

Heading the stars' supporting company are two leading ladies in the persons of Betty Bronson and Josephine Dunn, and a host of other players, including Reed Howes, Arthur Houseman, David Lee, Edward Martindel and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

COLORADO MAN DIES IN FALL

1,500 Foot Drop Off Cliff
Ends Life; Others
Rescued

Denver, Aug. 19.—C. W. Thieme, 40, of Denver, was found dead at the foot of a 1,500 foot cliff on Long's peak today. He, together with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Stacker of Boulder, Colo., were stranded on a narrow ledge under Chimney Notch, 700 feet from the top of Long's peak early yesterday.

A rescue party, consisting of rangers and guides, brought Dr. Stacker and his wife to safety this morning after they had been forced to spend the night in a drizzling rain and freezing temperatures.

Thieme, it was believed, either slipped or became numb with the cold, and fell from the narrow ledge to a bed of huge boulders in the chasm below.

OUR READERS

RAPS ALLEN
To the Editor, Citizens and Voters of Salem:

In answer to George W. Allen's letter of thanks to the city of Salem, for the 17 votes (less one) which he received, would like to ask, if the 16 said voters were not new residents of Salem? Surely they had not lived long in the city.

Righteous Man

As to Mr. Allen being a God-fearing, or righteous man does not need to advertise his goodness. "By their works ye shall know them." As to the home for wayward girls which we were to receive, if Mr. Allen was elected, we do not need it. Our Salem girls are not wayward. Go down to Lisbon to the juvenile court and see what a small percent is sent away from Salem. Oh no, the state can take care of the few girls we have that go astray. We do not want the world to think they are so numerous in Salem, that we need a $6,000 property to house them in. What we need is a mayor that will make the city so attractive that our girls will not go astray. We need a swimming pool, a dancing pavilion and other amusements of good clean pleasure, right at home, so our boys and girls won't have to hop into an automobile and go to some other town to find good honest amusement. We are living in the 20th century, we want to boost, not knock.

So Mr. Allen we do not want any home for wayward girls. If we do happen to have such a person in the city, kindly go their bail. It is more righteous.

Many Lose Lives As Vessels Crash

London, Aug. 19.—Search was being continued in the waters of the North Sea today for the bodies of 15 members of the crew of the Spanish steamer "Ogono," drowned when the vessel collided with the British tug King's Cross 30 miles off Humber.

The "Ogono" was struck amidships by the heavy tug, built for service in the storm-tossed waters of the North Sea. The "Ogono" sank in six minutes, giving the crew of 25 insufficient time to launch the lifeboats.
